GEIGER COUNTER | Class Excursion

The Year 12 students recently attended an excursion to the Daylesford Mill Markets to use a Geiger Counter to measure radioactivity in antique glass, pottery and watch dials. These antique items were painted by the radium girls, female factory workers who contracted radiation poisoning from using radium paints as part of their employment. On each excursion we bring back a radioactive item for the cabinet near the Year 12 room and this year we added a small brown pottery jug tested by Sam.

We got to see different jobs like engineering, design, metalwork, carpentry, and painting. It was like a journey into a world of endless possibilities, where we learned how things are made and how different skills come together. This photo captures the essence of our educational adventure.

BIG DAY OUT | Hands-On Learning + Adventure

Year 8 and 9 girls spent a very pleasant and relaxing day in Euroa participating in yoga, relaxation exercises and many choices of craft activities including the very popular jewellery making. It was a huge pleasure to watch the girls peacefully enjoying each other's company and just being themselves.

UNVEILING SOUTH-EAST ASIA ADVENTURE

Students from middle and upper secondary years have been enriched throughout their adventures in Vietnam and Cambodia, experiencing some of the region's most iconic and historically significant sites.

From the Ho Chi Minh Mausoleum in Hanoi, standing as a solemn tribute to the revered leader Ho Chi Minh, to the complex tunnel system at Cu Chi, which played a pivotal role during the Vietnam War.

The adventurous spirit of these students extend to exploring these magnificent temple ruins by bike, bringing them face to face with the awe-inspiring Ta Prohm, a site made famous by the Hollywood blockbuster "Tomb Raider."
